Sensei Gary's thoughts on judo...

"Judo brings people together by neutralizing differences of race, gender, religion, nationality, language, politics, wealth, education, professions, etc. In a judogi we are all equal. Our love of this sport is the common denominator to build upon friendships, mutual respect, and self-confidence."

"In judo you learn that in order to complete a throw you must risk being thrown. This is a valuable metaphor for life knowing sometimes the things you need to do in order to get ahead may result in being hurt, rejected, criticized, embarrassed, and unpopular. However, with proper training and hard work, the risks can be reduced significantly yielding many terrific rewards."

Favorite Quote by Theodore Roosevelt

"It is not the critic who counts, not the one who points out how the strong man stumbled or how the doer of deeds might have done better. The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena, whose face is marred with sweat and dust and blood; who strives valiantly; who errs and comes short again and again; who knows the great enthusiasms, the great devotions, and spends himself in a worthy cause; who, if he wins, knows the triumph of high achievement; and who, if he fails, at least fails while daring greatly, so that his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who know neither victory or defeat."
